The 85th legislature has adjourned sine die (for now) with only a handful of property tax bills passing during the regular session and no property tax bills passing from the first called special session. As you are aware, the Governor and Lt. Governor made property tax relief a high priority for the session; however, the major property tax bills stalled in the final moments of both the regular and special sessions. They could be called back again for another crack at it, but as of now this has not occurred. Should the Governor call them back once more, the TAAD legislative committee will be ready for the task.

PTAD has come up with the list of bills required to be covered for the laws and rules and has determined that the appropriate time is 1 hour. TAAD will be conducting multiple 2 hour updates at various locations so that all our members have the opportunity to receive the required CEs. Please check the TAAD website for dates and locations. For those who attended the seminar in The Woodlands, we are working with PTAD to ensure that you receive the full credit for the required laws and rules.

Now that the 85th session is over, the legislative committee will begin looking ahead to the next session. We will remain in contact with the legislators, their staffs, and other stakeholders to ensure TAAD is well represented regarding potential future legislation affecting our industry. During the interim, we will be developing our legislative priorities for next session and I encourage our members to reach out to the committee regarding ideas or changes you feel are needed. Your input is always welcomed.

As always, I highly recommend that you continually work to establish a relationship with your local representatives and senators. You are the experts regarding property tax and appraisal in your area and can be a valuable resource to them.

KP-0157 (August 3, 2017) RE: Whether relatives of a public official may perform uncompensated work for the official’s office without violating nepotism laws if the relatives receive reimbursement of actual expenses or a per diem expense payment. (RQ-0147-KP)

Summary: Section 573.041 of the Government Code prohibits a public official from appointing certain relatives to positions compensated with public funds. The reimbursement of expenses, however, is not compensation. Thus, a public official may appoint a close relative to a volunteer position that provides reimbursement for incurred expenses but no compensation.

KP-0154 (July 17, 2017) RE: Whether an independent school district must hold a tax ratification election pursuant to Tax Code section 26.08 in specific circumstances. (RQ-0159-KP)

Summary: Subsection 26.08(a) of the Tax Code requires the registered voters of an independent school district to approve an adopted tax rate if the governing body of the district adopts a tax rate that exceeds the district’s rollback tax rate. The rollback rate calculation, defined in subsection 26.08(n), includes a maximum maintenance and operations tax rate component and a current debt service tax rate component. The debt service component of the rollback rate does not reflect the debt service tax rate of the preceding year but of the current year. As a result, the rollback tax rate effectively measures only the maintenance and operations component of the tax rate.

The Urban Institute, June 6, 2017, www.builderonline.com

Editor’s Note: This is an interesting read.

"The Urban Institute’s Housing Finance Policy Center has posted a new blog about the real estate appraisal industry, showing how a slow and inefficient appraisal system gives an advantage to cash buyers. The blog shares insights from a recent panel discussion held at the Urban Institute about how to modernize the appraisal industry." http://bit.ly/2rSyKZT

"Hartford, Connecticut’s capital city and hub of the state’s insurance industry, is edging closer to joining a small club of American municipalities: those that have sought bankruptcy protection. Half of the city’s properties are excluded from paying taxes because they are government entities, hospitals and universities. Other cities in similar situations include Boston, where just over half of the property in the city is tax exempt. In Baltimore, about 32 percent of the property is tax exempt, and in Philadelphia it’s 27 percent." http://on.wsj.com/2scB9iA

A new study from Trulia and online dating site OKCupid shows that home prices in "America’s gay neighborhoods have recovered at a faster rate than non-gay neighborhoods." MarketWatch staffer Quentin Fottrell reports that in 2012, buyers had to pay an average premium of almost 29 percent, or $209 per square foot, to live in communities with a higher share of gay, lesbian and bisexual residents. In 2017, home buyers will need to pay a premium of nearly 37 percent, or $320 per square foot, to live in these same neighborhoods." http://bit.ly/2shsVFt

"The federal government won a valuable prize in the war on terror Thursday — full ownership of one of Manhattan’s hottest properties: 650 Fifth Ave., where Nike just signed a 15-year lease worth an estimated $700 million. The 36-story tower, worth an estimated $800 million, was awarded to the government after a Manhattan federal jury found that it was actually controlled by Iran in violation of US sanctions." http://nyp.st/2s6Xtaj

"Three years in the making, the Austrian Company Ecokit house is a modular, flat-packed design built from thermal-insulated panels and eco-friendly materials. The exterior looks something like a small, modern barn with a gabled roof, slanted side walls, covered deck, and solar roof system that the company claims can generate both electricity and hot water. Renderings for the interior show an open-plan living and dining area, with a bedroom on the ground level and another in the mezzanine.”

“In 2014, German engineering conglomerate ThyssenKrupp unveiled its concept for a cable-free, multi-directional elevator. Over the past few years the company has been constructing a 246-m (807-ft) high test tower and refining the technology that would allow multiple cars to move vertically and horizontally in a single shaft using a magnet-based drive system, and it’s finally worked.” http://bit.ly/2tKGBu1

Lauren Shanesy, www.builderonline.com, July 12, 2017

“A new study from The University of Texas at Austin and the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC) found that new homes built to a LEED standard for energy-efficiency are worth more in resale value than homes without green features. “The Value of LEED Homes in the Texas Real Estate Market: A Statistical Analysis of Resale Premiums for Green Certification,” study, released today, looked at more than 3,800 green-certified homes including LEED-certified homes built in Texas between 2008 (when the program was created) and 2016 and found that these homes are worth an average of $25,000 more in resale value than conventional homes.

That’s an 8 percent premium in resale value for the average new Texas home, which sells for $311,000. Homes built to a wider range of green standards such as Energy Star saw a 6 percent increase in value.” http://bit.ly/2uTnlrY

“Does the growing legalization of recreational and medical marijuana represent a pot of gold for industrial real estate? It could, experts say, but only if investors quickly and carefully pounce on opportunities.” Editor’s Note: Never in most of our wildest dreams would we have thought this would be part of a supply and demand discussion. This is an interesting article. http://bit.ly/2v38VFE

Forbes, July 20, 2017

“Foreign investment in U.S. residential real estate has reached a new high in the twelve-month period between April 2016 and March 2017. Foreign buyers and recent immigrants purchased $153 billion in residential property over this span, a 49 percent increase over 2016’s annual sales volume ($102.6 billion) and a new survey high over 2015’s $103.9 billion.” http://bit.ly/2uGqE7U

A must have for all appraisers! “A new toilet from Toto shatters the ceiling for what consumers will pay for a top-of-the-line luxury loo with an eye-popping $12,000 price tag. The Neorest AC is equipped with similar features as the manufacturer’s $10,000 Neorest 750H, including heated seats, auto open/auto close, warm, aerated water, and warm air drying. In addition, the new model comes with a sleek new wall-mounted system to save space in the bathroom and provide a customizable height for users.” http://bit.ly/2vIuzhM

“The national median home value is now $200,400, up 7.5 percent since this time last year. During the height of the housing bubble more than a decade ago, the median U.S. home value peaked at $196,600 but never surpassed the $200,000 threshold.” http://bit.ly/2uGj2y4

“Four big companies have bought nearly 700 single-family homes in Spring Hill, Tenn. A new breed of homeowners has arrived in this middle-class suburb of Nashville and in many other communities around the country: big investment firms in the business of offering single-family homes for rent. Their appearance has shaken up sales and rental markets and, in some neighborhoods, sparked rent increases.” http://on.wsj.com/2vIi31W

“GoBankingRates is out with a study, and a calculator, that will tell folks who live in various places whether it’s better to rent than own. To find out where it makes more sense to rent or buy a home, GoBankingRates once again surveyed the cost of renting versus owning a home in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. Since conducting a similar survey in 2016, we found that the number of places where it’s more expensive to own than rent has increased from nine to 11 — this includes a few states where the price difference is minimal.” http://bit.ly/2uVeulZ

“Pending home sales reversed a three month slide in June, rising 1.5 percent to a Pending Home Sales Index of 110.2, the National Association of Realtors reported Monday. The West, South and Northeast posted gains; the Midwest was the sole region with a decline.” http://bit.ly/2udB89V

"Wildfires in Canada are pushing up the price of lumber, threatening the supply to U.S. home builders. Lumber futures have soared in July as blazes spread across the province of British Columbia, leaving many U.S. wholesalers short-handed. Lumber dealers ran down their inventories this year as a trade spat between the administration of President Donald Trump and Canadian officials sparked wild price swings. Then Canada’s wildfires, a threat every summer, turned out to be the hardest on the lumber industry in more than a decade. Now home builders in the U.S., which gets around a third of its lumber from Canada, fear prices might climb even higher as wholesalers try to restock amid the price surge. British Columbia produces nearly half of all Canadian lumber, according to Statistics Canada." http://on.wsj.com/2tq3csi

Editor’s Note: For those of you that deal with cap rates, this will change what most banks use for calculating loan rates and adjustable rate mortgages. Libor—the London interbank offered rate—was created in 1986 to help banks set interest rates on big corporate loans. Thirty-one years later, a top U.K. banking regulator said the benchmark would be phased out over the next five years.

Prashant Gopal, www.nreionline.com, August 8, 2017

Editor’s Note: This is an interesting article. "People 55 and older own 53 percent of U.S. owner-occupied houses, the biggest share since the government started collecting data in 1900, according to real estate website Trulia. That’s up from 43 percent a decade ago. Those ages 18 to 34 possess just 11 percent. When they were that age, baby boomers had homes at almost twice that level." And apparently they are not moving. http://bit.ly/2vkicDu

Florian Martin, www.housingpublicmedia.org, August 7, 2017

Houston’s real estate market is on an unsustainable path, according to a report by CoreLogic. The real estate analytics firm lists Greater Houston among four U.S. metros with overvalued housing markets. Jim Gaines, chief economist for Texas A&M University’s Real Estate Center, is not entirely sure. "It implies that the values are so high, they’ve gone up so high, that there’s going to be a major downward correction or something in the future,” he said. “Which may or may not happen.” According to the Houston Association of Realtors, the median price for a single-family home in Houston was $239,000 in June. That’s about $9,000 more than a year prior and $80,000 more than in June of 2010. Gaines said it’s a simple matter of supply and demand. http://bit.ly/2vk8ado

Lisa Brown, www.globest.com, August 9, 2017

"By year-end 2017, San Antonio hotels are forecast to have a revenue per available room increase of 3.9 percent, more than the national projection of three percent, according to data from CBRE Hotels’ Americas Research. The RevPAR increase is the result of an estimated 1.3 percent occupancy increase and a 2.6 percent gain in average daily room rates. “With Houston’s market still in decline, and the Austin and Dallas-Fort Worth markets flattening out due to large hotel room supply increase, San Antonio is becoming a more attractive destination in Texas for hotel investors. A very small new hotel room supply pipeline and increasing hotel demand will help drive hotel RevPAR growth for the next few years,” said Michael Yu, senior vice president, CBRE Hotels. San Antonio market occupancy rate levels are forecast to range from 62.4 percent for lower-priced hotels to 70.2 percent for upper-priced hotels in 2017.” http://bit.ly/zhM5hh1

Editor’s Note: You might only see this once in a lifetime. “These days, the price of a San Francisco home can easily top a million dollars. But one savvy investor has bought up a whole street in the city’s most exclusive neighborhood for a mere $90,000. Trouble is, some of the extremely wealthy residents of Presidio Terrace were not aware their street was up for sale and are not pleased it has been sold.” http://cnb.cx/2vGSjG0

“The market shift toward more purchase mortgages, coupled with rising rates and tight inventory, is generating the consistent upward trend in defect risk, said First American Financial Corp., Santa Ana, Calif. The company’s monthly Loan Application Defect Index said frequency of defects, fraudulence and misrepresentation in the information submitted in mortgage loan applications increased 1.2 percent in June from May. From a year ago, the Defect Index increased by 16.7 percent but is down by nearly 18 percent from its high point of risk in October 2013.” http://bit.ly/2wvoDtR

The U.S. reported 88,734 rooms in 1,436 hotel projects in construction in July 2017, according to STR’s pipeline report for the month. The number of rooms is a 10.2 percent year-over-year increase compared to July 2016.” http://bit.ly/2v14El3

“In a recent survey from ValueInsured, 58 percent of the 1,079 adults surveyed agreed that there will be a "housing bubble and price correction" in the next two years. Forbes’ Samantha Sharff reports that a price correction does not have to mean that there is a bubble. Sharff explains that the last up-cycle ran for 17 years before the crash in 2006 and this number could well be the new normal for up-cycles. She goes on to explain how today’s market differs from that of the previous decade.” http://bit.ly/2woNAA2

“The S&P CoreLogic Case-Shiller U.S. National Home Price NSA Index, covering all nine U.S. census divisions, reported a 5.8 percent annual gain in June, up from 5.7 percent the previous month, S&P/Dow Jones reported Tuesday. The index at the end of June stood at 192.60, 4.3 percent ahead of the 2006 pre-crash peak and 43.7 percent above the post-crash trough in 2012.
